

Road to Medical School

An Uphill Battle

MedSchoolCoach helps you become one of the 15!

The Problem

When they attempt to climb the mountain alone, students:

- Spend less than 1 hour with their college pre-health advisor over the course of 4 years.
- Face daunting academic requirements they weren't adequately prepared for.
- Must navigate the overwhelming application process on their own with lots of misinformation.
- Have no knowledge of branding themselves to set their application apart from peers.

Even when parents or a student hired a college consultant, they may have no experience with the end goal of getting a student into medical school.

Acceptances

Acceptance rate at the average US medical schools

Competition

Chance of an acceptance to a single US medical school for an applicant with an average MCAT score

Proactive Planning

- ↑ Increases a chance of an acceptance to a US school
- ↑ Increases student happiness by allowing them to achieve their goals
- ↓ Reduces excess cost associated such as a masters programs and poor MCAT preparation solutions
- ✗ Eliminates the opportunity cost of unnecessary gap years

Our Solution

- Through the MedSchoolCoach Pre-Med Coaching program, students are paired with a physician advisor with admissions committee experience who will help them navigate every step of the process.
- From branding oneself, to choosing the right courses, participating in extracurriculars that will make a difference and timing an application, our advisors are here to make sure that every step taken is the right path to becoming a physician.
- Combining Pre-Med Coaching solution with our MCAT tutoring and preparation dramatically increase chances of an eventual acceptance.

Average time a college assigned Pre-Health Advisor spends with a pre-med student per year

Average time a MedSchoolCoach Pre-Med Coaching student spends with his or her advisor per year

15,000

Students that MedSchoolCoach has helped get into med school since 2007

500,000

Advising hours administered by MedSchoolCoach since 2007

The goal isn't to get into college. The goal is to become a physician.

